Dear Bob,

It was a pleasure to have you lecture in a guest capacity in my Entrepreneurship and Strategy class and I look forward to inviting you to join my one of my classes again. My students enjoyed the insights you were able to share with us about starting and growing Microgen Inc. In particular we were all extremely impressed with the passion and energy you bring to developing relationships and new revenue streams for your company. The students appreciated having a sense of how very differently you appeared to approach the management of relationships with the large corporate clients you have. As an instructor it was very insightful to have you share the perspective you have on the United Nations and the potential for business development with that organization.

Sincerely,

Ethne
